

Weekly Newsletter Header Banner \(1\)-1

Hello my sales peoples. How is it goings, Do you have 2 mins to checkout this letter?

Did this put you off? The bad grammar, the sad punctuation, the sentence case? And if you didn't notice all that, you need this week's Slintelegram, trust us.

In case you're wondering what the heck has gone wrong, know that it pained us immensely to even put that sentence out. Punctuation, grammar, spacing, tone, and more, is what we are looking at in this issue.

We will take a close look at the things we take for granted while writing something that goes out to the world. But first, let's dive into this week's acquisitions, funding news, IPO announcements, and top executive movements.

P.S: No, this is not an ad for Grammarly. We are not sponsored, yet. 😊

Top Executive Movements

- 🔊 AppViewX names Kevin Mosher as CRO to oversee company's next stage of high growth and scale sales operations
- 🔊 Former HSBC Group COO Andy Maguire joins Thought Machine as new Chair
- 🔊 Domino's Promotes Kelly Garcia to EVP - Chief Technology Officer
- 🔊 Ex-Citadel and Point72 executive Evan Feng joins the CoinFund investment team
- 🔊 Goldman Sachs has promoted Mark Sorrell and Stephan Feldgoise to co-heads of its global deal making team

Acquisition Alerts

- 📄 Keywords splashes $13.3 Million on Heavy Iron Studios acquisition
- 📄 FullBeauty to acquire Catherinesa ecommerce business from Ascena for $40.8 Million
- 📄 MetLife to acquire Versant Health for $1.68 Million
- 📄 Microsoft will acquire Bethesda in blockbuster $7.5 billion deal
- 📄 Episerver to acquire Optimizely for enhanced digital experiences

Funding Alerts

- 💰 Chinese healthtech firm Kye raises $64 Million in Series D round led by Tencent
- 💰 Voice AI startup Observe.AI raises $54 Million led by Menlo Ventures
- 💰 KKR leads Series C round funding of $450 Million for online fitness platform Zwift
- 💰 Urban farming startup Infarm reaps $170 million in funding
- 💰 Workplace collaboration startup Air raises $12M to boost product development

Recent IPOs News

- 🔥 Apollo Strategic Growth Capital files for a $750 Million IPO

-  Nuvei prices initial public offering at $26 USD, set to begin public trading next week
-  Unity Software prices IPO at $52 to raise at least $1.3 Billion
-  Candle seller Dusk Australasia readies roadshow for $120 Million IPO
-  Telehealth company Amwell spikes in public debut with outsized $742M IPO

Learning To Write Before We Run: A Lesson For Sales Folks

Communication is the top skill that we look at while hiring a sales rep. Where we go wrong is judging their communication just by how they talk.

"Most people suck at writing because most people aren't taught to write."

Most sales hires are extroverted talkers, and can get on the phone and spin magic with their words. But did you know, the average rep spends 20.4% of their time emailing compared to 15.7% talking on the phone or in-person?

While it's great to have people who can talk, once onboarded, reps live and die by their writing, and many find themselves unprepared to compete in the inbox. Also, we glaze over the fact that only when someone opens your email is when you actually get a phone call, and not the other way around.

Keep in mind, a bad email can do a lot worse than just going unanswered. THEY CAN MAKE IT ON YOUR PROSPECT'S LINKEDIN.

Oh, the horror, the shame, the rubbing-your-nose-in-the-dirt-along-with-your-image.

Want to make it to Santa's "nice" list? Learn to write. Want that deal closure? Learn to write. Want some mo' money in your bank? You guessed it, LEARN TO WRITE.

Read the article

From The Slintelegraph

A Strategy to Overcome "No Decision" the #1 Deal Killer

Anyone who's worked in sales will know that there's almost nothing more frustrating than losing a sale to a "no decision". Here's a sales strategy to avoid no decisions.

Optimizing Your Team's Sales Discovery Process

The discovery phase is the most crucial step in the sales process. And following this step-by-step guide can help you optimize your sales discovery.

Slintel, 465 N Whisman Rd, Mountain View, California 94043, United States

Unsubscribe Manage preferences